Year of Communion: In our Year of Communion, we are being asked to reflect on what it means to be in communion with one another, the wider world, creation and all of humanity. The Feast we celebrate today is not one of the 'perfect' family, but the feast of a family who had their fair share of worries and concerns. Within the context of this family Jesus grew up, experiencing love but also times of hardship. Whilst we may not know much about his early life, we can sense that from the very beginning he lived with parents who sought to do God's will. This is what makes them 'holy'. This seeking kept them alive to the needs of those around them, of the challenges which we can face and the courage it takes to choose the right path. As Christians we are called to discern the will of God and to be guided by it – in this way as a Christian family we grow in a deeper sense of being united in our vision and mission to proclaim the Gospel and live it courageously. It is our response to our personal and collective call to holiness.
